1. Generally, the terms of the user regulation at the Institute of Computer Science apply.

2. Additional information on the user regulations:
   (a) The Institute of Computer Science is endeavouring to ensure a continuous and stable computer technology operation. Still it cannot give any guarantee for faultless and uninterrupted operation of the computer technology and the recoverability of user data in cases of average.
   (b) User authorizations must be prolonged prior to the expiry of validity. If this does not happen, the access of the relevant user will be automatically blocked after the date of expiry.
   (c) All user-specific data will be deleted without prior notice eight weeks after the user authorization expired.
   (d) The provided software is subject to licence terms and, thus, must not be copied and must not be commercially used. Freeware products are excluded from this.
   (e) For accessing the institute's laboratory and working with the technology installed there the following applies in particular:
      • Access with valid account only;
      • Do not start the computer with own system software;
      • Use the technology for scientific and study purposes only;
      • No food and no beverages in the laboratory rooms.
   (f) Passwords
      • Consist of 8 characters minimum and contain at least two special characters or figures;
      • Must not be passed on.
   (g) Personal data will be stored related to the implementation of the user administration.
   (h) The signing party
      • Confirms the correctness and completeness of the information;
      • Accepts the access regulations and the user regulations of the Institute of Computer Science;
      • Takes the responsibility for complying with the related conditions.

The user regulation and the access regulation of the Institute of Computer Science is available at https://www.informatik.uni-rostock.de/footer/ordnungen/ (in German only).

3. The completely filled user application with the related signatures must be submitted at Mrs. Erdmann in room 264. The account is handed over personally, for students on presentation of the student ID card. Issuing times are Tuesday and Thursday from 13.00 to 14.30 o'clock during the semesters, between the semesters upon agreement. The applications must be submitted at the day before latest.

Herewith, I accept the user regulations and the access regulations of the Institute of Computer Science.
